LONG-TERM FORECAST

The Canadian trucking industry has over 23,000 truck driver job vacancies right now and that hole is expected to sink deeper very soon – to 55,000 vacancies by 2024. The vacancy rate in truck transportation was much higher than that of the general economy (8% compared to 5.4%) and represents the second highest vacancy rate of any sector in the entire economy.

To support the recruitment and retention of skilled foreign workers in Northern Ontario, the federal government introduced the RNIP program in 2019. The program is designed to spread the benefits of economic immigration to smaller communities by creating a path to permanent residence for skilled foreign workers who want to work and live in the Thunder Bay region.

OUR SERVICES

We provide all services required to recruit and onboard a foreign worker to Canada.

We provide complete Legal Immigration Services for both RNIP and LMIA Work Permit. Along with immigration, we provide professional recruitment services, connecting you with the international labor market.

OUR RECRUITMENT PROCESS

We scout the world for professional experienced talent that will compliment the Canadian work force. We are known to bring cream of the crop, construction and transportation workers with high relevant skills and strong communication skills.

We provide a shortlist of highly qualified foreign workers relevant to your needs. We arrange zoom interviews with potential employees, upon the convenience of the hiring manager. Subsequently we process the work visa at High Commissions overseas.
